Immediate Release

4matix successfully performs IBM Content Manager Conversion to Documentum AX for Raw Data, Inc.

Raw Data won an award to implement a new ECM environment for an International Government Client. A significant component of the Solution was migrating the customer’s legacy image data from IBM Content Manager running on a soon to be decommissioned AS/400.

Raw Data turned to 4matix to deliver the data conversion. Working from backup DB2 tables and image volumes – 4matix repurposed the image data for the new ECM application – EMC ApplicationXtender (AX). Additionally, 4matix delivered AX import files for the easy ingestion of the archive data.

4matix provided an exact accounting of all documents and pages and finished the conversion well ahead of schedule and on budget. Julian De’Juan, President of Raw Data on working with 4matix, “4matix made working with them very easy. They were flexible, professional and most importantly, delivered as promised. I would not hesitate to work with them again.”

About 4matix:

4matix is an industry-leading provider of ECM data conversions. We provide conversions from large document imaging and COLD repositories to new ECM platforms. Conversions are provided in a secure lab environment on dedicated conversion hardware and software.

Our staff has over 50 years of experience in this industry with a focus on data migration. We specialize in the conversion of disparate legacy systems, image and COLD formats as well as media platforms – such as optical platters and tape. Each customer’s conversion requirements are unique, that’s why our highly skilled staff provides custom solutions to these complex and demanding problems. 4matix is a unique company in that we do not provide any other service or product outside of data migration. We have a unique niche in the marketplace and can expand the offerings of software companies, VARS, systems integrators and consultants.
